BIG CARGOES OF FLOUR SHIPPED TO EUROPE

EXISTS IN MEXICO
Cargo of 4,000 barrels is now on the steamship East Point on its way to Liverpool, and the steamship West Point, bound for London, is just sailing with another cargo of 2,600 barrels. Another large shipment will soon be made to Gibraltar, from Newport News. This shipment was intended originally to go by way of London, but since the British government has issued orders that no foodstuff shall be exported from the United Kingdom, the cargo will go to Gibraltar direct. It is believed that this cargo is destined for some Mediterranean port, and is probably consigned to the French government.

It is expected that these tremendous orders for for any order, however large, that may come. The Dunlop Mills are well prepared for any order, however large, that may come. The capacity of the combined mills is 2,600 barrels a day, a daily output that is not surpassed by any mill in the country, and there is no portion of the globe in which the Richmond of the globe in which the R (Continued From First Page.)

mills is 2,600 barrels a day, a daily output that is not surpassed by any mill in the country, and there is no portion of the globe in which the Richmond flour is not known. The mills are now filling the largest orders in their history of 116 years, and they bid fair to operate at full capacity until long after the gigantic conflict in Europe comes to its tragic close.

A weekly letter gotten out by the Dunlop Mills shows that the exports of wheat and flour continue on a very large scale, the exports for August having been 27,350,000 bushels for the two months ending August 31, as against 41,600,000 bushels for the same period in 1913. It is predicted that the exports for 'September will be in the neighborhood of 30,000,000 bushels, and if this estimate be later verified by the government, this country will have exported $7,000,000 bushels as against 145,000,000, the total exports for the preceding year. This means that the exports of wheat and flour for the first three months of the present crop equal the exports for the preceding plane was encountered with 10,000 men.

If the government estimate of the winter wheat crop be correct, there will be available in this country for export this year 275,000,000 bushels, to be shipped at the rate of 21,000,000 bushels a month. If the government estimate he incorrect by so much as 50,000,000 bushels, which a great many authorities insist upon, there will be but 132,000,000 bushels to go forward during the next nine months, at the rate of 15,000,000 bushels a month. There is a shortage in the Canadian wheat crop, and a shortage exists in practically every wheat-growing country on the globe except the United States, and this year the United States will have to be the granary of the world. It is said that the European demand for the next twelve months will be on an unprecedented scale. Every bushel of wheat will find ready market. The British government is so alarmed over the prospect of famine prices, it is said, that societies are being organized to see that every foot of area in her colonies available for the planting of cereals is cultivated next year.
